

[Download pdf ebook] A Philosophical Theory of Citizenship: Obligation, Authority, and Membership

A Philosophical Theory of Citizenship: Obligation, Authority, and Membership

Steven J. Wulf

Download PDF | ePub | DOC | audiobook | ebooks*

 Download

 Read Online

#7106192 in Books Lexington Books 2008-05-13 Original language: English PDF # 1 9.32 x .64 x 6.281, .82
#File Name: 0739120409162 pages | File size: 72.Mb

Steven J. Wulf : A Philosophical Theory of Citizenship: Obligation, Authority, and Membership before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised A Philosophical Theory of Citizenship: Obligation, Authority, and Membership:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Concise, PowerfulBy Stephen W. Though concise, Wulf presents a powerful and cogent argument. Generally, recommend for students and teachers of political philosophy, and more specifically, to those interested in political theories of citizenship. A short, though intellectually stimulating read!

Why should we obey the law? Why should we willingly sacrifice life, liberty, and property to preserve our political community? Which laws are authorized? Which exceed government's authority? What kind of community merits our allegiance today? What do we owe fellow citizens, prospective immigrants, and foreign communities? A Philosophical Theory of Citizenship addresses these and other seminal questions about legal obligation, government authority, and political community. It rejects contemporary political philosophy's anti-foundational conventions by building its arguments from the ground up on an innovative, idiomatic theory of reality, ethical conduct, and the self. It employs this theory to provide scholars and students with a concise, wide-ranging defense of patriotic duty, classical liberty, and national sovereignty.

A fresh new argument, thoughtful, subtle, and persuasive, on a concern as old as Aristotle: the nature of citizenship. (Isaac Kramnick, Cornell University) About the Author Steven J. Wulf is assistant professor of government at Lawrence University.