loud wake-up call to all Americans that will hopefully start to create awareness about those who are truly in control. The controllers want to now destroy The United States of America, a country that proudly claims that it is the last bastion of freedom on the planet. Who are these hidden controllers you may ask? According to the author, Sean Maclaren, they are the Jesuits. This book is an excellent first step in educating Americans and citizens worldwide as to how the Jesuits have infiltrated so many key sectors of our society and have integrated themselves into our cities, communities, local and state governments and federal government. This book could not only have been 400-500 pages, but each of the first 10 chapters could have each been a book by themselves. The Jesuits already have a divided American nation, one of their core missions in any country that they build up in order to tear down later. Americans need to put their differences aside and immerse themselves in this book so that they can realize how for many years they have been and are still now being manipulated by the Jesuits to hate one another and continue to divide us through the fear-mongering and garbage-talk of our corporate-controlled media and false promises of plastic leaders, some of who have been trained in Jesuit educational institutions. This book should encourage you to continue your research into the dark history of the Jesuits and their diabolical plans for all Americans. There is still hope for America not only to survive, but to thrive once again as a republic. When Sean MacLaren released Romanic Depression with Garner as the editor, my Jesuit education took a huge leap forward. The information in this book was just what I had been looking for. It reminding me of the movie "The Hurricane" wherein the phrase "We don't choose the books we read. They choose us" was stated. Whether they care at this point or even believe that American citizens can usurp their power and control is irrelevant. As Americans, we must unite against their machinations first through understanding who they are and what their long term plans are for us and the rest of the world. Then we can start to take action at a grass-roots level within our homes and communities. With the internet connecting the entire planet, we have the opportunity to educate more people than had ever been possible in the past. Many brave souls over hundreds of years have risked their lives to expose the Jesuits and their machinations. Now we must use the tools available to us to educate the distracted masses.---

My personal awakening - I instinctively knew that something was amiss about twenty years ago in the mid 90's when I was just starting to wake up to the realities that were surrounding me. I was fortunate to have had the opportunity to earn a college degree, had followed the path that had been laid out for me by my parents and yet I was still struggling. Opportunities weren't as abundant as they had been advertised by the corporate-controlled, mainstream media. After working in the private sector and living on my own for a few years, I started to see and experience things that didn't add up. I was taught to be self-sufficient, work hard, have a good work ethic and contribute to society where possible. This was in direct contrast to those who would be taught to wholly rely on government hand-outs and welfare. I did benefit from state and federal grants to help pay for some of my college expenses, but my parents felt this was their hard-earned tax dollars at work. I paid my taxes like a good citizen, but saw others taking advantage of the system. I had always played by the rules and adhered to the systems in place, but at different times, like many Americans, I was struggling just to survive on my own. This made me start to question why there were so many systems in the first place. Maybe it was to keep me in my place? Years later, I came across Aaron Russo's great documentary "Freedom to Fascism" about the IRS and Federal Reserve and learned how these entities were private companies acting as US government agencies, fleecing Americans of their money. The private Fed makes hundreds of billions of dollars per year loaning money to our US government, a government that used to print its own money in the past. I then wondered about what other "systems" were in place designed to suppress the common American citizen to an even greater degree. We're viewed as working slaves within their corrupt financial system designed to suck the life out of every American. Everywhere I turned they were trying to get me to either take out a loan for just about any big ticket item imaginable (college education, new car, new home, bigger tv, etc.) or they wanted me to use credit cards at high interest rates to pay for everything so that they could tie me down with as much personal debt as possible for years to come. This was all part of their long term plans to financially and spiritually enslave all of us. A few years ago, I was fortunate to come across a Dean Garner interview on Veritas Radio in which he talked in detail about this group called "The Jesuits". I had heard the name before, but had no clue as to who they were, what they were about and how long they had been around. Raised Protestant, a lot of my friends were Catholic, but we never questioned or cared about our different religious upbringings. We were friends, regardless, and never discussed our religions. We didn't care as it didn't define us. If anything, our religions sometimes affected the amount of time we could spend together due to church activities and my friends being forced to go to Catholic "confession" all the time.. Having no clue about the history of Protestantism or Catholicism during my youth, and having never questioning anything, I was totally unaware of how this group the Jesuits were tied directly to the Catholic religion and the Vatican and how they were also an integral part of my life without my knowledge. This new discovery a few years ago was eye-opening on a whole new level and equally disturbing once I started to delve into their long history. Dean Garner wrote an amazing book entitled, "Who Really Owns Your Gold?" which documented in detail how the Rothschild's, who are now worth trillions of dollars, worked directly for the Jesuits and that it was the Jesuits who were really the ones behind the curtain running things. Dean's research was spot on and this Jesuit angle started to make a lot more sense as to what was going on in the world at this time. Could it really be just one core group in control... the Jesuits? Seemed a bit hard to believe at first as, but the evidence started piling up quickly and pointed heavily in their direction. I then read as much as I could on my own to learn about their dark past. Many brave humans have risked their lives (and some have even paid with theirs) to bring this information about the Jesuits out into the open. They wrote under pseudonyms (fake names) as they feared for their lives. Once information was brought out into the public eye, it was usually quickly suppressed and the authors humiliated and/or tortured or killed if found out. But luckily, more brave souls, over hundreds of years of human suffering, would continue to risk everything to shed light on the Jesuits and their atrocities so that we could know the truth. The Jesuits should be feared and yet also respected for all that they have accomplished over approximately 500 years that they have been behind the scenes manipulated wars, genociding entire cultures, installing puppet leaders in foreign countries and slaughtering millions of innocent humans, all underwritten by what they decree as divine law administered through religion. What a brilliant and despotic system of control! Religions are social control systems according to author John Lamb Lash. The Jesuits use religions as just another way to keep us divided. Looking back over everything that they've accomplished during their reign of terror, it should make you wonder how they've been able to stay in control as long as they have. Hundreds of years ago, the church had the power, so it makes sense that the Romans, hence the Roman Catholic Church, was the supreme ruler and enforcer within society. "All roads lead to Rome" isn't just a catchy phrase it's the Jesuit's calling card and has been for 500 years. Once you realize that the Jesuits were established as a military order with their chosen members, aka soldiers, being taught to obey all orders at any cost, it makes a lot of sense as to how they've stayed in control for so long. Their soldiers went into battle facing certain death but would do it willingly for the Jesuit cause. Just like an obedient little robot.

By James W. Lee
Mr. Sean MacLaren and his editor, Mr. William Garner have done an invaluable service to all with this must read book. History has always been told by the victors, it is said. Romanic Depression delves deep under the covers of the Roman Empire aka the Vatican aka the Jesuits, who have ruled and controlled all for centuries without knowledge or disclosure, until now. The Federal Government of USA was founded by Jesuits, for Jesuits. The White House is named after Andrew White known by the Roman Catholics as "The Apostle of Maryland". The land for the creation of Washington D.C. was donated by Daniel Carroll, whose Jesuit brother John Carroll, founded Georgetown University just six months prior to the founding of Washington D.C. while other brother, Charles Carroll, was an intimate friend of Benjamin Franklin. US War Commissioner and a signatory on the Declaration of Independence. President John Adams declared Charles, "The richest American citizen". Bill Clinton went to Jesuit Georgetown school. Donald Trump went to Fordham University Jesuit school and most top military generals and admirals went through the Emerson Foreign Service school at Georgetown. Please get this book for your library and share this critical knowledge with others. For further historical insight on the Jesuits, please read William Garner's book, Who Really Owns Your Gold, Fourth Edition, also on Amazon, and read his articles at WilliamDeanAGarner.com.

Always well researched and useful information!

Author and researcher Sean Maclaren presents the first book in a four-part series that reveals how the nearly 500-year-old Society of Jesus, the Jesuits, have designed, built and destroyed the United States of America. Using examples from all sectors of society, Maclaren also details the mechanisms used by the Jesuits to cleverly hide their efforts in plain sight, while distracting Americans with endless forms of entertainment. The first book of the series includes chapters on Government; Politics; Religion; News and Media; Morals and Values; Guns, Drugs and Sex; Military; Healthcare and Medicine; Education; and Criminal Justice. The book also contains 25 pages of excellent references for those who wish to investigate further. For further information on the Jesuits, please read Who Really Owns Your Gold, Third Ed. (2016) by William Garner. For information on the origins of the fictitious Roman Catholic religion, please read Arcanum: A critical analysis of the original 36 sermons of Jmmanuel, the man known to the world as Jesus Christ.

I gave it five stars for its ruthless expose about the Jesuits. But I was disappointed that Sean Maclaren only documented 10 different sectors of society and how the Jesuits manipulate them. Evidently, this is a series of 4 books, so others will talk about other sectors. Still, what I read was mind blowing and thought provoking. Maclaren talks in depth about each sector and its beginnings, then talks more about specifically how the Jesuits started it and set it up for failure. There are many examples in each chapter (10 total chapters). This book is not for all of you who actually think Donald Trump was elected president by the American people!!! --Jon Macintosh

When Sean MacLaren released Romanic Depression with Garner as the editor, my Jesuit education took a huge leap forward. Talk about having your reality turned upside down and inside out. The information in this book was just what I had been looking for. It reminding me of the movie "The Hurricane" wherein the phrase "We don't choose the books we read. They choose us" was stated. The Jesuits should be feared and yet also respected for all that they have accomplished over the hundreds, if not thousands, of years that they have been behind the scenes manipulated wars, genociding entire cultures, installing puppet leaders and slaughtering millions of innocent humans underwritten by what they decree as divine law administered through religion. What a brilliant system! Looking back over everything that they've accomplished during their reign of terror, it should blow your mind on how they've been able to stay in control as long as they have. But once you realize that they were established as a military order with their soldiers being taught to just obey orders at any cost, it makes a lot of sense how they've stayed in control. But now it's our time to usurp their power. Citizens united. With the internet connecting the entire planet, we have the opportunity to educate more people than has ever been possible in the past. Many brave souls over hundreds, if not thousands, of years have risked their lives to expose the Jesuits and their machinations. This book is an excellent first step in educating Americans and citizens worldwide as to how the Jesuits have infiltrated so many key sectors of our society. This book could not only have been 400-500 pages, but each of the first 10 chapters could have each been a book by themselves. MacLaren should be praised for getting this first book of the series out at this critical juncture of the direction of our country. With Bill Clinton being trained at a Jesuit university, I would have thought that Hillary winning the election over Obama would have been a slam dunk. But they threw us a curve ball with Obama being elected over Hillary, so who knows what the Jesuits have in store for Americans with the latest curve ball being thrown putting Trump now at the helm. Only time will tell. The Jesuits already have a divided nation, one of their core missions in any country that they build up in order to tear down later. Americans need to put their differences aside and read this book so that they can realize how for many years they have been and are still now being manipulated by the Jesuits to hate one another through our corporate-controlled media and false promises of faux leaders who have been trained in Jesuit educational institutions. This book should encourage you to continue your research into the dark history of the Jesuits and their diabolical plans for all Americans. The Jesuits use Hollywood- and New York-trained ACTORS in many scenarios today, including fake bombings, fake shootings, fake trials, fake newscasts, etc. How much longer are the American people going to tolerate such a fictitious existence? The Jesuits order members of the American government to deliberately lie to us about everything. We cannot even tell fact from fiction these days. Sean Maclaren's Romanic Depression does not tell the whole story, but it is a good start to understanding the greatest issues infecting us today. A good read to boot! From the Author Romanic Depression has been by far the most difficult book to research and write, because of the sensitive subject matter. My hope is that all Americans will take an interest in how the hidden powers, the Jesuits, manipulate all of us on a daily basis, and not in our best interests.
