Therese Maynard : Securities Regulations (Law School Legends Audio Series) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Securities Regulations (Law School Legends Audio Series):

By TheLonelyArtistClubI commuted 40-50 minutes each way to law school, so I had plenty of time in the car to listen to audio recordings. The content in this cd was very useful, but each of the cds only consists of one track. This becomes annoying because if you eject the cd to listen to something else, and then reinsert it, it always starts back at the beginning on the only track. Good content if you can afford it and have an atmosphere to listen to it in. If I didn't have the commute to listen to it during, I probably would not have used it much. I can't see myself sitting in my room listening to it when I could more directly study printed materials, but it worked well in the car. In my experience, many textbook shops won't buy these back. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Good Review; Good Professor By Kay Jacobs I really liked the Prof. She has a great speaking voice and walks through a lot of important topics. This is old now, unfortunately, and should be updated, but nonetheless, it does cover the biggest SEC Rule changes from 2005. Worth getting if you just need a primer or a review. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Four Stars By Harry E James L Great

Securities Regulations condenses securities regulations into one lecture, including law, hypotheticals, and exam tips. This audio lecture covers such topics as: modern financial markets, securities markets, federal securities law, the role of the SEC, forces of change at work in today's securities markets, the definition of security, public offerings and the registration process under Section 5 of the 1933 Act, preparing the registration statement, shelf registration procedures, the SEC's new public offering reform rules, resales of securities by non-issuers, and express civil liability provisions of the 1933 Act.
